

FAME have been very busy over the past few months and has made significant progress. Here we share with you just some of our significant developments.

Editorial Comment

Chair of the FAME Partnership and Director of North East Centre of Excellence, David Wright, begins to tell us the developments made by FAME over the past months.

Learn More

Introducing FAME Communities

The newly launched FAME Communities has now been launched. Rob Wilson, tells on how to become a free member along with the benefits.

Learn More

Professional Development for Multi-Agency Working

FAME is offering the chance to be involved in two unique learning and development opportunities. The FAME masterclass and the Distance Learning Programme are a great way to discover the benefits of FAME.

Learn More

FAME in Context

Last year, FAME facilitated an Information Sharing Workshop for senior strategic thinkers and practitioners. We are now happy to share out finding with you.

Learn More

FAME Demonstrator deployed for Regional Children's Service Directory Project

Local directories of children's services can be useful tools for potential clients and for practitioners, but the options in how they are prepared, managed and published are complex. FAME explores and shares its findings.

Learn More

FAME Demonstrator Available Under Open Licence

FAME's free software tool, The FAME Demonstrator, is available, free of charge in order to assist organisations working in multi-agency environments.

Learn More

What is FAME?

FAME is a way in which to assist working in multi-agency environments. There are a number of ways in which this is done.

Learn More